1. The Thai Government has closed down the Viet Minh News Bulletin, Tin Viet, because of French, British and American pressure. The Viet Minh Tong-bo had planned to adopt the name Cuu Long for their new news bulletin but at the last moment changed the name to To Quoc (The Fatherland).*
2. The offices of the To Quoc are at 11 Suriwong Road, Bangkok.
3. The quarters at 543 Silom Road are still occupied by the Viet Minh and are currently being used as a publishing house for a Viet Minh magazine in Thai. The magazine is officially owned and edited by Madame Le Trung, who is a veteran Communist. Le Trung completed her course in journalism at Chulalongkorn University.

Long had been adopted by the Viet Minh for their news bulletin. the name Cuu
